Post-Gatty Triumph. Wild Greeting at Berlin. Atlantic Flight A Record. Fastest Ever.

London, June 24.
It is now revealed that the record for the Atlantic flight, which was established by the British airmen, Sir John Alcock and Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, in 1919, was broken to-day when fifteen hours and forty-eight minutes after leaving Harbour Grace, the American airman, Wiley Post, accompanied by the former Australian naval cadet, Harold Gatty, landed at a R.A.F. aerodrome, near Chester.

They beat the record which had stood for twelve years by twenty-four minutes.

After less than an hour's stay, they left for Berlin on a further stage of their projected flight round the world, which they hope to complete in seven days.

Berlin Enthusiasm.
They landed at Tempelhof Aerodrome, Berlin, at 8.50 p.m. Greenwich Mean Time.

There were scenes of wild enthusiasm at the aerodrome when the heroes of a remarkable trip landed. The police were totally unable to restrain the crowd, which surged round the fliers and gave them a wonderful reception.

Post and Gatty were so exhausted on landing that they were scarcely able to walk, but they revived after a meal.

In a brief interview, they said that the weather over the Atlantic was very bad. They encountered a dense fog practically the whole way.

Petrol Shortage.
They landed in England because they were running short of petrol and they also landed at Hanover on their way to Berlin because they had no maps and were not quite certain of their route. They propose to leave for Moscow at six o'clock to-morrow (Thursday) morning.—Reuter and British Wireless.

SENTENCE ON JAN WAGTER.

IMPRISONMENT FOR ASSAULT.

Sentence of eight weeks' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Schofield, at the Central Police Court this morning, on Jan Wagter, the Dutch seaman who was yesterday convicted of a charge of assault on Mr. H. Watt, the Court proceedings arising from the recent incident at the Seamen's Institute.

His Worship yesterday reserved his sentence for the production of the defendant's medical record, and when this was handed in this morning, he said he had decided to send the defendant to gaol for eight weeks with hard labour.

In the meantime, said Mr. Williams, arrangements would be made to send defendant back to Holland, if possible, and the medical report upon his case would be forwarded to the local authorities for their information.

FOREIGNER'S HOME INVADED.

IMPORTANT ISSUE INVOLVED.

DETAILS OF SHANGHAI INCIDENT.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, June 25.

A serious incident, which has a bearing on the outlying roads question and the right of the police of the Municipality of Greater Shanghai to enter upon certain extra-settlement territory, occurred yesterday afternoon.

Mr. H. F. Smith, the American occupant of No. 858, Avenue Haig, following upon the invasion of his house by two Chinese district policemen, had recourse to his rifle to support the action of Police Sergeant Hillhouse, who tackled the two Chinese policemen.

During the course of the trouble, Sergeant Hillhouse was confronted by the drawn pistols of the Chinese intruders, and for some seconds was held up in the hallway of the house.

Shot in Wrist.

Eventually, however, Sergeant Hillhouse succeeded in driving them away by using his own pistol. The second shot he fired struck one of the men in the right wrist.

The incident was the sequel to trouble between Mr. H. F. Smith and a tailor over a crossed cheque for $30, which the tailor declared he had been unable to cash.

Tailor Threatens.

The tailor called at the residence during the absence of Mr. Smith. He returned the cheque to Mrs. Smith and had an argument with her and the man, who asked him to return later for payment from Mr. Smith.

Because of his threatening attitude, Mrs. Smith left home hurried by the back door of the house and hurried in a ricksha to Bubbling Well Road Police Station. Her husband was communicated with by telephone and all three then returned to the house.

Protest to Nanking.

On arrival they found two Chinese policemen inside the premises. Sgt. Hillhouse ordered them out. They produced pistols and brandished them threateningly. Eventually, Hillhouse, as stated, fired and wounded one of them.

The Municipal Council, it is learned, is taking steps to lodge a protest against the action of the Chinese police with the Nanking Government.

Home Surrounded.

Soon after the shooting, the Chinese police were reinforced by a large posse from the native city, the house being surrounded. They were not withdrawn until three hours had elapsed.

Reuter, in a belated message regarding the affair, says that the matter is being discussed between the Chinese authorities, the settlement Police and the American consular officers.

GLASGOW BUSINESS SENSATION.

Two Dramatic Arrests.

FRAUD CHARGES.

London, June 24.

A big sensation was caused in Scottish business circles to-day when it became known that two well-known Glasgow chartered accountants had been arrested in connexion with alleged attempts to defraud Lloyd's Bank.

Two other arrests were made in England and the total amount involved is said to exceed £100,000. The two Glasgow arrests concerned

John Cole Hamilton, and Joseph Wellcome Mackinnon. Both are extremely well-known in Glasgow commercial circles.

They were arrested on a warrant issued by the Bailey Police on a charge of conspiring to defraud Lloyd's Bank, Limited, by false and fraudulent written statements regarding the assets and liabilities of certain textile companies.

The two arrests made in England with dramatic suddenness in the same connexion were of Alexander Young, of Worthington, and Henry Cecil Turner, a former mill-manager at Batley.

Henry Cecil Turner was charged at Batley Police Court this morning with conspiracy to defraud Lloyd's Bank of £50,000, and also with fraudulent conversion of money belonging to various companies, involving a further £81,000.

He was remanded in custody until July 3.—Reuter.

RECORD FLIGHT SEQUEL.

GRIERSON "SACKED" FROM R.A.F.

London, June 24.

The sequel to flying officer John Grierson's solo flight from India to England in the record time of 4 days 12 hours and 50 minutes, is that his services with the Royal Air Force have been dispensed with.

Grierson was attached to the Karachi Royal Air Force when he started his adventure in a second hand Gypsy Moth Plane. On his arrival in England he was placed under open arrest at Uxbridge Depot for a fortnight.

He admitted to a press representative to-day that he left India without the permission of his superior officers.

"Things were very quiet out there on the frontier and I wanted to get on with my engine research work."

The Air Ministry, he said, had refused to accept his resignation and it seemed to him to be the only way he could manage to get out of the service.

NAUTILUS ON WAY TO DEVONPORT.

BROKEN CYLINDER BEING REPLACED.

London, June 24.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, aboard the submarine Nautilus, left Cork this evening, being cheered by a large crowd.

The Nautilus is being towed to Devonport, where the submarine's broken cylinder will be replaced.—Reuter.

TENNIS ROMANCE RUMOUR.

Our Betty and Spence.

Yesterday's Play at Wimbledon.

BRITISH SUCCESS.

London, June 24.

Occasional showers restricted play in the world's tennis championships at Wimbledon, and there were few surprises, the somewhat heavier going playing into the hands of the more experienced players.

One of the main attractions of the day, the meeting of Jiro Sato and Madan Mohan, failed to provide the keen tussle expected, Sato winning without great difficulty.

When East met East in this game, the cunning of the Japanese undermined the foundations of the Indian's play and he lost an unequal contest badly, though he made a practice in the first set of capturing Sato's service.

Sato's Brilliance.
From two games all, Sato drew away to five-three, and then ran out winner of the set, the Indian securing only two points in the ninth game.

Mohan changed his shoes in the second set owing to the slippery nature of the ground, but his opponent moved quickly on the heavy ground and secured the winning point in the second set with a magnificent ground shot retrieve.

Mohan then changed his racquet without avail. Sato took the first game in the third with a scorching cross-court drive, Mohan drew level at one all, but Sato exhibited remarkable ball control and went to 4-1, timing his shots on a low trajectory perfectly. He clinched the match easily.

French Successes.
Miki and Kawachi failed badly against Borotra and Boussus, Jiro Sato being the sole Japanese representative remaining.

Austin's great improvement was revealed against Jacques Brugnon. The Frenchman started off well enough, but Austin's resourceful attack gradually wore him down and he failed to get a game in the third set.

The American ex-Davis Cup player, George Lott, again met defeat at the hands of a British player in straight sets on this occasion, though twelve games were played in each.

The Day's Sensation.
King Alfonso was an interested spectator, and he occupied a seat in the Royal Box, witnessing the sensational defeat of Senorita de Alvarez, the Spanish lady champion, by Miss Dorothy Round. The Senorita was one of the eight seeded women players and the manner in which Miss Dorothy Round, one of the British hopes, outwitted her, was remarkably impressive.

SWATOW'S FATE UNCERTAIN.

SPECULATION IN THE CITY.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Swatow, June 23.
There is much speculation here as to the probable course of events as between Canton and Nanking. Nanking's move against the Communists in Central China is interpreted in the local press as an attempt to drive the "Reds" over the Kwangtung border, and thus harass the Province. In that case, the Chaohowfu-Swatow area would be involved.

A different report is that General Chiang Kwong-nai's 61st Division is moving down and has already reached Hing-ling; and that Canton, realising its front to be too wide to be defended, may again be forced to retreat.

There is, however, no confirmation obtainable of either of these reports.

BRITAIN'S ANSWER TO U.S.A.

TORY TRIBUTE TO GOVERNMENT.

The Spirit and the Letter.

London, June 24.

An important statement by Mr. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and a clear statement by Mr. H. L. Stimson, the U. S. Secretary of State, that the broad outline of President Hoover's proposal will not be departed from, were the main developments to-day in the moratorium situation.

The British Government, striving by every means to give practical effect to the proposal at the earliest possible moment, has made a generous gesture to the Dominions, and is prepared to face a Budget loss of £11,000,000.

Commons Statement.
"As the Prime Minister informed House on the 22nd," said Mr. Snowden, "His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom subscribe wholeheartedly to the principle of President Hoover's proposal and are prepared to co-operate in the elaboration of the details with a view to giving it practical effect without delay."

"I should like to take this opportunity to explain the steps we have decided to take for this purpose. The more consideration we give to the President's declaration, the more it seems to us that, having regard particularly to the history of the matter, the declaration constitutes a very great gesture on the part of the United States of America and it will be a thousand pities if Europe does not respond to it in the same spirit."

"The beneficial effect of the proposal may be lost unless steps are taken by all the countries concerned to give it prompt and practical effect. This is particularly the case as regards Germany, which after all, is the essential difficulty."

No Time for Conference.
"We agree with the view expressed by the United States Government that there is no time for a conference. A more prompt method must be found for putting into operation the proposal of the United States Government for complete and immediate suspension of German payments to creditor Governments."

"The procedure which we would favour is that the creditor Governments should forthwith notify the Bank of International Settlements that they agree to the proposal for a suspension for one year of all German payments due to them."

"The decision, of course, does not rest with us alone, and we are waiting the views of the other creditor Governments, but we hope it may be possible to secure an agreement on these lines as soon as possible."

"President Hoover's proposal applies, however, to all inter-Governmental debts, reparations and relief debts."

Spirit and Letter.
"His Majesty's Government for their part accept this proposal in the spirit as well as the letter. They will accordingly be ready to suspend for one year all such inter-Governmental debts due to them as soon as President Hoover's proposal has been generally accepted, and, in the meantime, as from the last proximo, they will refrain from claiming instalments that may fall due."

"As regards relief debts, His Majesty's Government are at once taking steps to inform other European Governments which hold relief bonds of their action and to invite them to co-operate."

Offer to Dominions.
"Finally, although His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom do not regard President Hoover's proposal as directly affecting Dominions and the settlement of

A SENSATIONAL ASSAULT.

DR. FRED KEW STRUCK OVER HEAD.

A sensational and a wholly mysterious assault was committed upon Dr. Fred Kew, a well-known local dental surgeon and share-broker, in Ico House Street opposite the premises formerly occupied by the King Edward Hotel, yesterday.

Dr. Kew was talking to a friend outside the Dutch Bank at the junction of Ico House Street and Des Voeux Road at about 12.30 p.m. when, without any apparent reason, he was suddenly struck
over the head with a bamboo pole
by one of two Chinese who were passing at the time. Immediately on committing the assault, the assailants darted up Ico House Street towards the Star Ferry, with Mr. Chan, of the Bank staff,
who was attracted by the alarm
which was raised, in hot pursuit.

On reaching Charter Road, one of the two men was stopped by a European gentleman and handed over to Mr. Chan who subsequently gave him in charge. It is believed that this man, who had the appearance of being a street coolie, was actually the one who struck the blow. The other man disappeared and has not yet been arrested.

In the meantime Dr. Kew was taken to the office of his brother in Alexandra Building and there
his injury was dressed. Later, he had the wound stitched, although it is believed that it is not of a serious nature. It is su-posed that Dr. Kew received a blow intended for someone else.

HO YING-CHING.

CANTON REPORTS DEATH OF WAR MINISTER.

The death of Ho Ying-ching, minister of war of the National Government in Nanking, has been confirmed in a message received from Nanchang by a certain consulate in Shanghai, according to the Canton newspapers.

According to the message, the sender who is a foreign surgeon
in the Kiangsi capital, had attended Ho at the Government military hospital there from the day the latter was fatally wounded to the time he succumbed to his injuries.

The latest news concerning Gen.
Ho Ying-ching was received on Tuesday from Kiangsi when he and General Chan Ming-shu were said to be conferring with Marshal Chiang on bandit suppression measures, according to the Renahua service.

It is interesting to note that
Gen. Ho Ying-ching's name has been three times linked up with anti-Chiang Kai-shek movements in China. He was first mentioned during the 1928 Kwangsi commanders' revolt when Marshal Chiang was forced to retire from active politics for a few months, residing in Japan. The second time, General Ho was cited as one of the ten Chinese leaders conspiring against Marshal Chiang about a year ago when Yen Hai-shan started the northern rebellion. Until lately he was reported to be plotting with the Canton leaders.

There were no casualties, but it is believed serious damage has been done to crops.
Volcanic eruptions have been

THE MOTOR CYCLE THEFT CASE.

SIMPSON BLAMES A PORTUGUESE.

Evidence for the defence was heard by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, in the case in which William John Simpson, a Eurasian, is charged with the larceny of motor cycle accessories from the garage
of an unnumbered house in Castle Peak Road on June 2, and also with having ridden motor cycle
No. 350 without the permission of the owner, Private Angus, of the Arroll and Sutherland Highlanders.

Mr. Horace Lo defended the accused.

Mr. C. Jameson, a warder in the Lai-chikok prison, said that he was riding his cycle along Castle Peak Road about 6.05 p.m. on June 2,
and when he was passing Orme's house he noticed the defendant
trying to repair his motor cycle.
He stopped and spoke to the defendant, who told him that he wanted no assistance. He then left. On his return about 6.40 p.m. he saw the defendant still there.

The defendant said that he was riding his motor cycle No. 686
with a friend on the pillow to Castle Peak for tea. On the way back he had a puncture near Orme's house. He had no tools with him, so he stopped two public cars, from one of which he obtained a pump. He inflated his tyre but found it leaking, and gave back the pump.

The Portuguese.

Eventually a motor cycle ridden
by a Portuguese came from the direction of Castle Peak, and he borrowed some tools from the cyclist. He asked the cyclist
when he could return the tools.
The cyclist said "To-morrow,"
and before he could ask any further questions, rode off. They then tried to mend the tyre, and it was about this time that the warder came up and asked whether they needed assistance. Witness replied that it was all right and the warder rode away.

They were just finishing their work when he noticed the Portuguese again riding towards Castle Peak at a very fast speed.
They pushed the cycle to a mat-shed, and got the permission of a Chinese there to leave the machine in it. They handed the tools to a workman and then walked in the direction of Castle Peak and got into a bus coming to Kowloon.

Denial of Larceny.

The following morning he went to his friend's workshop and borrowed his cycle and together they proceeded to the matshed. When they entered they saw two Indian constables playing cards. His friend got the tools and they started to work on the machine.
It was then that a Chinese detective came up and questioned them
and asked him to go to the police station.

Witness denied having ridden
complainant's cycle on that day or at any time. He also denied the larceny of the tools.

In reply to Mr. Hamilton, witness said that he did not pay particular attention to the motor cycle ridden by the Portuguese.
All he could say was that it had no rear light.

Mr. Hamilton:—Are you suggesting that the Portuguese stole the complainant's cycle?
Defendant:—I don't know.
Further hearing was adjourned
until Tuesday morning.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.
This is a condition for (disorder) to which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is a weakness of the system, as it were, of the vital force that sustains the system. No matter what may be its causes (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the most prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weakness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what is the remedy? In all such cases is increased vitality—vigor, vital strength and energy, to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be more or less secured by a course of THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY.

ST. PAUL'S SCENE.

MAN EJECTED.

London, May 25. Police officers and vergers ejected a man who interrupted the service in St. Paul's Cathedral last night.

The preacher, the Rev. J. W. Woodhouse, Vicar of Christ Church, Luton, was about to begin his sermon when a man's voice was heard from the body of the nave.

He began: "In the name of the Pope," and was heard to mention the Labour Government and the Archbishop of Canterbury, but most of his interjection was lost in the surprised murmurings of the large congregation.

For a moment or two the congregation remained silent, and then worshippers gradually rose to their feet to see where the interruption was coming from.

Struggle With Vergers.

The interrupter, a small clean-shaven middle-aged man, dressed in a blue suit, was seated and shouting loudly.

Vergers and police officers moved towards him, and he was removed from his seat in the middle of a row of chairs, and taken struggling out of the cathedral.

During the interruption the organist drowned part of the man's shouting with music.

Mr. Woodhouse said to a New Chronicle reporter: "I took no notice of what happened. It was stupid and not worth bothering about."

SELFRIDGE'S
LONDON, W.1CHAT WITH CAROL'S
PROFESSOR.

HIS MORALITY "MOP."

Bucharest, May 24.
The most original statesman at the moment in South-Eastern Europe must surely be Professor Nicholas Jorga, the new Prime Minister of Rumania.Professor Jorga has deserted
the study, at the call of his old pupil, King Carol of Rumania, and he says that only a deep sense of obligation towards his country
has induced him to take this step.Return to Simplicity.
He is the apostle of a return to simplicity in Rumania, and he proposes to use an immense mop to cleanse the country of the corruption, jobbery, and finance scandals that have been so unpleasant
a feature of political life in that country since the end of the war."I shall," he says, "punish without mercy all those politicians who are proved to have used their position to make money at the expense of the State during the past few years.""Graft must be stamped out, and the grafters sent to gaol."Every financial and trading transaction of recent date with which the State was associated is being investigated, and when the reports reach me I shall strike at the guilty."

Peasants' Support.

These investigations are being conducted by members of the new Prime Minister's family, his personal friends, and former students, not by state officials.The peasants of Rumania, apparently astonished that a Statesman should make a serious effort
to check corruption, are supporting the Professor's campaign.He receives daily from village correspondents close on 400 letters in which instances of local maladministration are cited, and the names of local grafters revealed.

Reforms of Manners.

Professor Jorga's campaign also embraces the reform of morals
and manners.He calls for the revival of traditional customs in a land where it is now good tone to imitate
Paris.His ban on the wearing of silk stockings and the use of cosmetics
by girl clerks and typists in Government offices is being persisted
in, despite resistance.The Prime Minister shows no pity for office mixers who try to circumvent his prohibition.The porter at the Ministry of Education, who had allowed two girls to slip into the building in frocks held to be too diaphanous,
has been dismissed, and his post confided to a janitor of more rigid morals.GIRL'S COURAGE IN FARM DRAMA.

SAW MOTHER SHOT.

Toronto, May 23.
The courage of a girl who saw her mother shot was revealed at the inquest on Colonel and Mrs.
Hilliard Lyle, who were found dead to-day at their home at Beaver Lodge, Alberta.It was stated that Helen Sloan, a daughter of Mrs. Lyle by a former marriage, saw Colonel Lyle pointing a gun at his wife, and rushed towards him. The gun went off and Mrs. Lyle fell dead, but the girl grappled with her stepfather, and forced him down
the cellar steps. Shortly afterwards a shot was heard, and Colonel Lyle was found dying.Mrs. Lyle, formerly Miss Gertrude Tennyson, was a distant relative of Lord Tennyson, the poet.
Colonel Lyle, who was 52, was awarded the D.S.O. in 1917.Camrose (Alberta), Sunday.— Holder of the Military Cross, a farmer named R. C. Voigt, after killing his wife and two small children, drove with another child
in his motor-car towards a lake.
Neighbours rescued the child, but Voigt evaded them, ran the car
into the lake and was drowned.

WOMEN'S WORLD

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

YOUR CHILDREN.

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

Parents are so much more than friends to their children that it is impossible to measure them
purely on the basis of friendship.
But the idea of friendship as the most successful family relationship is stressed by specialists, because not only is it the best and easiest way to approach the child, but it solves so many difficulties for the parent."If I don't scold Billy," says his bewildered mother, "how am I going to teach him to do things right
and call his attention to the wrong things he has done? I have to keep right on after him if I want to train him."And she is right. Of course she has to keep after him. But there are many ways of keeping after him besides bawling him out for every little thing he does.

Varied Misdemeanors

Suppose Billy does something naughty. Perhaps he takes a peach from the sideboard when he has been forbidden to have one, or he drums on the piano and wakens
the baby, or drags through a mud puddle with his new shoes on; perhaps he does something even more serious; he may have told you a story, or carried tales about his playmates or deliberately destroyed something.It is an old question whether a child should or should not be scolded or otherwise punished at the time of his offence. Many parents think he should be, but few know that all misdemeanor instantly and deliberately puts up a defence for itself.And as soon as Billy misbehaves, he throws up a mental wall
that defies all efforts to break through at the time. In serious things particularly, far more can be gained by waiting a little while after each offence, and then showing him exactly why he was wrong,
warning him not to do it again.
By this time, not only will Billy's defence wall have died down, but also the parent's anger will have cooled and his influence will be greater. Discipline put over as a passion is the poorest sort of discipline.

Constant scolding and punish-

A Favourite.

The season's favourite tuck-
in blouse is here expressed in oyster-coloured satin, killed
frills of the same material trimming collar, jabot revers, and bishop sleeves.

White or Pastel.

A simple high-waisted petticoat for wear beneath light frocks. It may be developed in white or pastel tinted
washing satin, is scalloped,
and bound at the edges, and adorned with clusters of hand-embroidered flowers and leaves.

HANDY SPECTACLES.

Many women will appreciate the newest folding spectacles, which may be carried in a case about half the size of the usual one. The glass parts of the specs fold on top of each other, while each long part which goes behind the ears
has a hinge in the middle and folds together. The chases for containing the glasses may be obtained in shagreen, snakeskin, or leather, in a variety of shades.ing doesn't remove the real trouble. Billy will only become afraid of his parents under this treatment, or become so indifferent
to it that it will gradually leave less and less impression; either way, Billy will begin to lose confidence in his parents, and when that goes, everything goes.There are, of course, times when spot discipline is necessary, and common sense must select these times. There is no hard and fast rule.Nagging and perpetual scolding is the most ineffectual means in the world, and if the child is of the spirited, combative type, nothing but defiance can come of it in the end. And such a procedure soon loses its effect.Why not have a "save-up" hour
when a child will listen seriously to what we have to say? Friendship and confidence are preserved
and thought and a sense of justice come into play. When a child is made to think, half the battle is won.

FASHION NOTES.

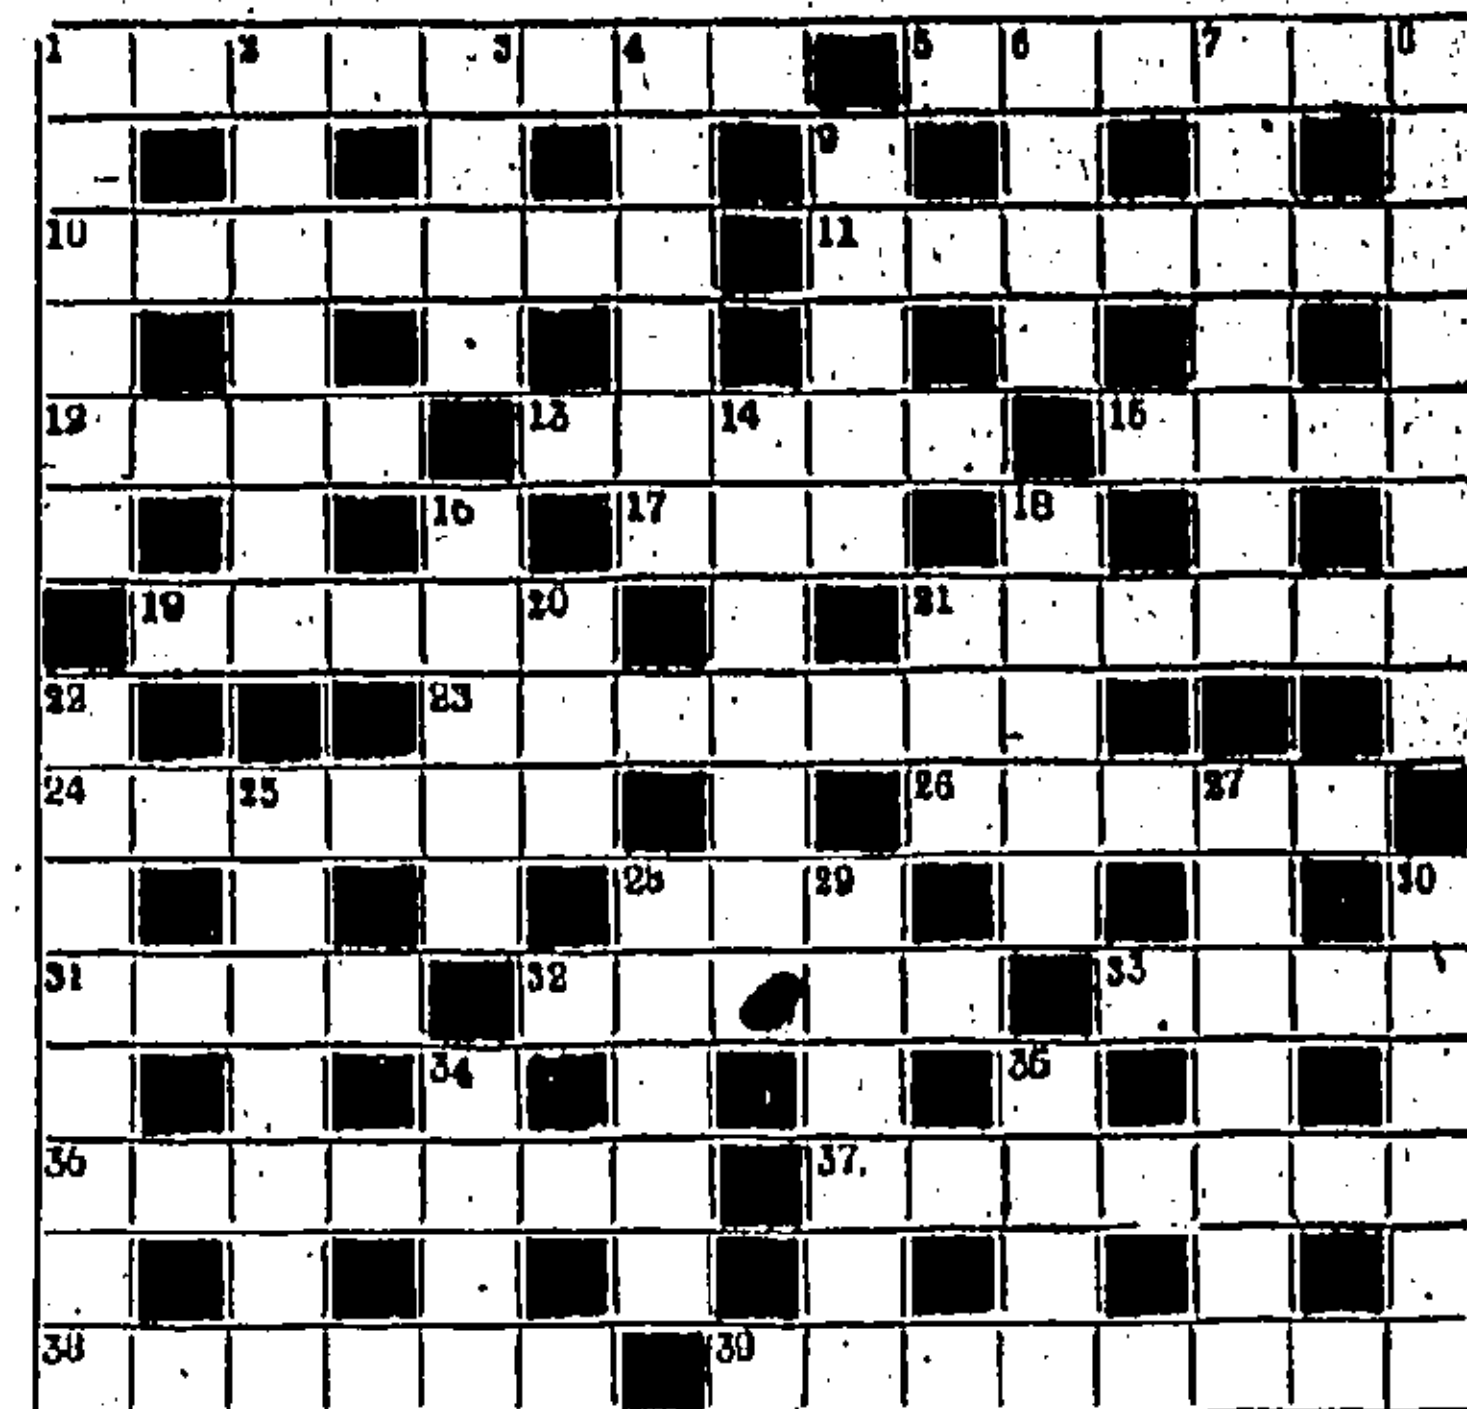

The Popular Silhouette.

White embroidered petticoats,
under dresses of thin woollen voile, marocain, or crepe-de-chine are among the new features. With a dress of this kind seen recently,
the hem of the petticoat was trimmed with broderie anglaise to match the vest, and, sometimes, the petticoat matches the muslin and lace blouse.This fragile underskirt is usually suspended from the shoulders, and sometime the blouse is sewn on to
it. It is not unusual for the hem
of the dress to be cut irregularly,
in such a way that the petticoat
may be glimpsed below it.The popular silhouette this season is one which gently follows the lines of the figure. The fullness is placed, as a rule fairly low on the skirt.For the evening it is obtained by godets and flares, as well as pleats; for day-time, pleats, as a rule, reign supreme, and they are placed at the side, for this new line is one which is flat at the back, and the front with fullness at the sides.Evening dresses frequently have small trains, and in any case, the unseen hem is seen everywhere.Square décolletés are seen frequently, and fichus are interesting.
There are new necklines, and sleeves often have a wide puff
between shoulder and elbow.

For Morning Wear.

This is a useful style for an
"every-day" frock of any
fairly substantial material.
The model sketched is carried out in oatmeal-coloured crepe, with a red satin fin
and a red leather belt. The hat is fine red felt.

THE POPE AND SOCIALISM.

As was, perhaps, to be expected, a good deal of controversy has arisen in England over the recent Papal Encyclical, issued in Rome, to the effect that no-one could be a good Catholic and a true Socialist. This declaration at first appeared to be rather awkward for those Labour M.P.'s who are Catholics, to say nothing of the thousands of British Catholics who are to be counted amongst the supporters of the Labour, or Socialist, Government. The issue was made all the more complicated from the fact that Cardinal Bourne has himself given sanction to Catholics to vote Labour if they feel so disposed. The question was naturally asked, since the Pope is greater than any Cardinal, what British Catholics were to make of this Papal declaration. Moreover, it was even suggested that opponents of the Government might endeavour to make political capital out of the Encyclical by warning Catholics who happened to vote Labour that they would be running contrary to the Pope's injunction.

It seems, however, that at a moment when the controversy showed signs of developing, Father Woodlock, a clever Jesuit, stepped in to explain the situation. Everything, he declared, turned on the word "true." There were good and bad kinds of Socialism, as there were of Capitalism, and "true" Socialism was the bad kind—the materialistic Continental type. This, said Father Woodlock, and not the British Labour Party's kind, was what the Pope denounced. "I feel sure," he said, "that Pope Pius XI would not regard Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Snowden as 'true' Socialists in their Party programme." Labour Catholics, therefore, may take some comfort in the knowledge that they are only pseudo-Socialists. On this point, at any rate, the Bolsheviks are in complete accord with the Pope; that is, if Father Woodlock has any authority for interpreting the Encyclical. So far, however, we have not encountered any confirmatory announcement from Rome. In a sense, it is a pity that the Papal declaration was not more specific, since the term "Socialism" is a very loose one. In England, so far from Socialism has very close association with the Church, not only amongst non-conformists but also in the Church of England, more than one Bishop of which has claimed to be a Christian Socialist. There is the case, also, of Lord Parmoor, a pillar of the Church, who has had no compunction in accepting Cabinet rank in a Socialist Government. At the other extreme, there is Russia, whose conception of Socialism is most decidedly anti-Christian in character. Some will say, of course, that Russia's political system is Bolshevism, not Socialism, but the very name of the Soviet, the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, disposes of that point.

To the layman, there would seem great need for the Church, or any section of it, to be particularly meticulous in designating political organisations which it deems fit to criticise. Generalisation is decidedly dangerous in these matters. There is, of course, a call for the Church to denounce any movement which is professedly and definitely anti-Christian or anti-religious, no matter what its designation may be. To go beyond this, however, is to invite trouble. In particular, to group Socialists together in one body as irreligious people is to distort facts; indeed, Christ Himself has often been held up as the greatest exponent of the basic principles of Socialism. From these considerations, there emerges the thought that the Church should have as little as possible to do with political matters, contenting itself with disseminating those great principles for which it stands, and eschewing controversial disputes which, if indulged in, may react to the manifest harm of religion.

The Cult of the Nude.

One of the corollaries to the proposition that we are free men and women living in a free colony is that we should be allowed to go to the Devil in our own way. For that reason, possibly, the correspondent who wrote us yesterday imagines that, certain restrictions and safeguards understood, the authorities would raise no rigid objection to the establishment of a Nude Culture Association in Hongkong. A very plausible argument in favour of such an organisation was contained in the letter, the writer of which evidently believes that the cult of the nude is also the cult of well-being. Unfortunately there are difficulties in the way which are not considered by the correspondent. Much could be said for a destruction of the fear of the human body which has been carefully cultivated in English minds for a century or more. But it is a moot point whether such fear is not based on sound premises. The danger is not so much concerned with lack of self-control in the sense which engages the attention of the originator of the proposal, but with whether the contemplation in the flesh of all our various deformities, produced by an endless capacity for cream buns in our youth and large lagers in later life, by cheap corsets and tight garters and so on, would so react on our sense of humour as to lead to the total destruction of friendship in ordinary social life. Certain bathing-costumed figures on local beaches arouse slyly joking comment enough, when markedly rotund or bony-kneed, but such restraint would, we fear, reach its breaking point if the contours were thrown into more vivid relief. Were we all endowed with the grace of Greek gods and goddesses the consequences of further enlightenment as to the details need not be feared, but beach pyjamas are not solely for decorative purposes, and there would be every excuse for some men if they went down to the sea in slips—or dressing-gowns. At the same time there is nothing to prevent enthusiasts from indulging the cult of the nude in the privacy of their homes to their heart's content, or from buying a sequestered island nearby where "strong-minded and reasonably self-possessed men and women" could enjoy to the full the unhindered breath of

Much sympathy will be felt for Mr. T. Yoshida, Japanese Consul-General in Hongkong, and Mrs. Yoshida, in the death of their little son, Master Koichi Yoshida, which occurred on Monday morning. The little lad had been ill for about a month. There was a large attendance at the funeral service held at the Japanese Crematorium, Sookanpo, on Tuesday evening.

Shortly after eight o'clock yesterday morning considerable excitement was caused on a Star Ferry boat which was proceeding from Kowloon to Hongkong, when a cry of "man overboard" was raised. It was noticed that a Chinese was in the water astern of the ferry boat which was promptly manoeuvred around to pick the man up. It was discovered that the man had divested himself of his clothing before jumping in, and after he had been pulled aboard with some difficulty he surprised his rescuers by suddenly breaking away and again diving into the water just as the ferry boat had again got under way. Again the boat was turned, but a motor boat in the vicinity was hailed, the occupants of which eventually fished the man out of the water and held him under control until the boat reached Hongkong. He was handed over to the police.

STRAITS COLONIAL SECRETARY.

HON. MR. SCOTT NOW IN HONGKONG.

Amongst the passengers who arrived here by the Blue Funnel liner Antenor from Singapore to-day was the Hon. Mr. J. Scott, C.M.G., Colonial Secretary of the Straits Settlements, who is proceeding on home leave via Canada. He is accompanied by Mrs. Scott.

Mr. Scott, who was appointed Colonial Secretary on Jan. 27, 1929, assumed duty on Feb. 12 of that year. He was in the Ceylon Civil Service from 1901 to 1921, and was then Deputy Chief Secretary, Nigeria (1921-25) and Chief Secretary, Tanganyika (1924-29).

Since his appointment to the Straits Settlements Mr. Scott has been Officer Administering the Government, Straits Settlements, and High Commissioner for the Malay States from October, 1929, to February, 1930, following the departure of Sir Hugh Clifford, and from October, 1930, to the present month, during the absence on leave of Sir Cecil Clementi.

BRITISH AND PROUD OF IT.

By COLLINSON OWEN.

AFTER an interval of some five or six years I found myself the other night once more witnessing the Royal Tournament, and before the proceedings had gone very far realised that I had treated myself to a much-needed tonic. Here is just the entertainment many of us need, whether we know it or not. Here were soldiers and sailors open and unashamed, bearing no traces of hang-dog inferiority complex because they belong to what are still known as the "fighting" forces, and indeed, seeming rather proud of it, and getting a lot of fun out of the show themselves.

It was like rolling the years back to the days, not necessarily during the war, when to be decently proud of the Navy and Army was a natural sort of thing, not mixed with too much flag-wagging, but certainly not mixed with the shameful fear that a red coat was a danger to civilisation.

Bit by bit in recent years that healthy and rational belief has been subtly drawn from us. We have been taught, by the operation of a miserable brand of politics which kills every healthy national feeling, as frost kills dahlias, that armies and navies are dreadfully wrong; wrong in themselves, irrespective of what duties they have to perform, and how they perform them.

Time Not Yet Ripe.

Indeed, at the tournament door a nice little boy of about twelve handed me a leaflet, appealing for my support for universal disarmament. To which I might have said, had he been old enough to understand: "It would be quite simple, young man, if all the nations of the world were as civilised as your own."

But I forgot the nice little boy and his leaflets the moment I took my seat and found "J" Battery, R.H.A., just beginning its musical drive.

And I found myself saying: "Is this just a gay and sparkling show? Is this what the Army is for? If so it is a rather expensive hobby to have an army, even a small one. But, of course, this is merely the army at play. Behind it there is a deeper meaning. Those guns, polished like jewels, can also bark. We are still a military nation—though in a very small way of business. And hang it all, why not? Whatever Mr. Gandhi may think about it, I'm going to enjoy myself."

Envyng These Young Men.

From which moment, having cast all fears and doubts behind me, having decided that in this uneven and imperfect world the soldier still has his place and his functions, I settled down to make a night of it.

I began to envy these little young men who take such a keen delight in vigorous and even hazardous physical exercises, and apparently do their jobs with a minimum of worrying about class-consciousness, or the bitter fact that in every really efficient organisation there is a captain who gives orders and subordinates who carry them out.

That must be a galling thought to our higher political thinkers, and for the sake of their theories they had better keep away from the tournament—as indeed they will.

Another reflection on the matter is that these young men who were giving us such fun practically all belonged to what is to-day called the proletariat.

Yet here they were radiating health, good spirits and physical fitness, and superbly trained not to drone "The Red Flag" or to rattle a collecting-box at a Hyde Park mass-meeting, but in defence of their country, whenever that is needed again.

And having said so much, one may as well pass at once to what, in the opinion of many, judging by the applause, is the most attractive feature of all; the display of physical training given by some two hundred young men of the Royal Air Force. This display contains no martial trappings, no weapons, nothing suggestive of the pomp and circumstance of war. Just blue singlets, white shorts, and the brown bodies of young men in the perfection of physical training.

There is much else in the programme, of course, which runs this item very closely in appeal.

There is, indeed, only one fault to be found with the Royal Tournament, which is that it is confined for its display to London. It is surely time that the provinces should be able to see this great show nearer their own doors.

No doubt certain difficulties would have to be overcome. Nor is the suggestion that the Royal Tournament should tour the country like a circus. But at a number of selected provincial centres, where there is a hall big enough for the purpose, this great show should be given every year.

The annual visit of the tournament, once the movement was started, would be looked for as one of the outstanding events of life.

Here is a clean, inspiring, vigorous entertainment which belongs to the nation as no other does, which no other country produces.

It is true that it is also patriotic. But that need not be regarded as a blemish. Both the performers and the audience at the tournament show clearly that there are more patriots about than our politicians realise. The provinces would make that truth even more clear.

ALL I KNOW ABOUT LIFE.

By MAURICE LANE-NORCOTT.

IT is now more than twenty-two years since I last owned a white rat, and I still fail to see why policemen should be so homely. I can no longer remember which king came after William Rufus, and I think it is an exaggeration to call the accordion a musical instrument. I cannot read the Russian novels or drink cider. I would sooner fly to Paris than go by train, and I am rarely bored when I am quite alone. I do not like vanilla ices.

I can see no reason why politicians should dress so badly, and I have never handled a snake nor sung in public. I cannot break myself of cigarette smoking. I am afraid of bulls.

In my opinion, sixpence is too high a charge for leaving one's hat in a theatre cloakroom. I have never seen a pretty girl hiker.

People I Abhor.

I do not expect ever to understand how a wireless set or a zip fastener works, and I abhor people who do tricks with matches and ask riddles.

I consider that the following foods are unfit for human consumption: Porridge, stewed rabbit, boiled cod, salt pork, and I once saw a man eat custard with a fork.

I always cheat when I play patience by myself, and if the telephone rings after I am in bed I ignore it. I have never known a dog called Fido.

Next to cows, cyclists seem to me to be the most selfish of road users, and I cannot bring myself to believe in wine connoisseurs, art critics or reincarnation. I have forgotten all that I ever knew about chemistry, Euclid, trigonometry, biology and chess, and I cannot keep a pipe alight or play the piano.

I am a bad dancer. I have noticed a marked improvement in women's clothes since the war, and I always feel self-conscious and shabby when I enter a bank. I dislike semi-detached houses.

I have never met a rude taxi-driver, and I am disinclined to believe that there is more room in the rear of Underground trains. I am easily depressed by rain, and I am easily depressed by rain, and I am easily depressed by rain.

"But, lady, you ought to try boiling one of these anthers."

CANTON PEACE
RUMOURS.GEN. CHAN CHAI-TONG'S ATTITUDE.

MEDIATION PLAN.

Shanghai, June 25.
Significant news concerning the Canton situation has been received from semi-official circles here stating that General Chan Chai-tong favours a diplomatic settlement of the Canton-Nanking disagreement. In this connection, Nanking official circles attach importance to the return to Canton of Mr. Huang Chi-lu. Mr. Huang was formerly a member of the Kwangtung Provincial Council and the editor of the Canton official daily newspaper, the Kuo Min Daily News. He resigned when the split occurred.

Shanghai reports mention that Mr. Huang's return to Canton arouses much hope for a peaceful settlement as he has assumed the role of a mediator.

The visit to Kwangsi of General Wang, Shao-hung, the former Military Governor, whose recent negotiations for a political compromise between the Kwangsi and Nanking Governments will be recalled, is also said to be in the nature of a secret mission inspired by the Central Government, with a view to solving the Nanking-Kwangsi disputes.

General Pei Chung-hai left Canton on Monday and arrived at Wuchow on Tuesday, apparently to seek an interview with Gen. Wang.

Mr. Wu Tze-hui on Monday visited Mr. Chang Ching-kiang at his Shanghai residence. The two members of the Supervisory Committee discussed at considerable length important measures to bring about a peaceful settlement.

INDIAN AERIAL POLICY.

London, June 24.
Replying to a question in the House of Commons, Mr. F. Montague, Under Secretary for Air, said he was unaware that the Indian Government had placed any obstacles in the way of flights over Indian territory of machines other than Indian machines with Indian pilots.

In regard to the Air Transport Services, he understood it would be contrary to that Government's policy to subsidise any company other than an Indian company with rupee capital and Indian personnel.

He added that the Secretary for Air was fully alive to the importance of the continuous development of air routes throughout the Empire, and the policy of the Department was being directed towards that end. British Wireless.

BRITISH NAVAL PROGRAMME.

London, June 24.
In the House of Commons, the First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. A. V. Alexander, replying to a question, said the cruiser and destroyer building programme had been continually under consideration throughout the Franco-Italian negotiations.

As it was hoped that an opportunity might soon arise for continuing these negotiations, the Government did not consider that the situation at present warranted any increase in the building programme approved by Parliament. British Wireless.

SMART WORK BY
P.O. OFFICER.FOUR OPIUM SMUGGLERS CAUGHT.

THREE SENTENCED.

An exceptionally smart piece of work on the part of an Indian official of the Post Office, was described to Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court this morning when Revenue Officer Humphreys charged four Chinese, including a woman, with being in possession of varying quantities of prepared opium on board the s.s. Kamo yesterday.

The first defendant, Ma Fuk, a cook on board the s.s. Kamo, was charged with possession of 14 taels of prepared opium; the second, Lau Cheung, with 14 taels; the third, Cheung Kei, with 24 taels and the fourth, Leung Luk, who is the wife of Cheung Kei, with 10 taels.

The facts, as disclosed by B. O. Humphreys, were that at about 3.30 p.m. yesterday a Post Office launch was lying alongside Blake Pier with an Indian mail officer, Mr. Mohamed Ahsan, in charge. He observed the four defendants get into a motor boat and proceed towards the s.s. Kamo. Their actions aroused the officer's suspicions and he ordered the Post Office launch to the Kamo.

Arriving before the defendants' motor boat, Mr. Ahsan waited for the defendants and when Ma Fuk went on board the Kamo the Indian official searched him, finding the opium tied around his legs. The others were searched in turn and around each of their legs were secured various quantities of prepared opium.

All defendants were taken ashore and handed over to an Indian constable.

The first defendant was apparently the man responsible for the opium and he had engaged the others to carry it for him. One lot had already been taken on board the Kamo, which was due to leave for Saigon at 4 o'clock.

His Worship remarked that the woman may have been acting under the instructions of her husband, and cautioned her.

The first defendant was fined $1,700 or eight months' hard labour, the second $1,500 or seven months and the third $2,500 or nine months' imprisonment.

BRITAIN'S ANSWER

Between those of His Majesty's Governments concerned, we felt that we should be interpreting the wishes of the country in deciding freely to offer to the Dominions and India, the same concession as is proposed for foreign countries under the same conditions.

"Accordingly, when inviting the assent of the Dominion Governments and the Government of India to the suspension of German payments, so far as regards the share to which they are entitled, we intimated that, on the same principle, we would readily give them the option of postponing the whole amount of their war debt payments to the United Kingdom for a period of 12 months from 1st July if they so desire.

Cost of Government.

"These proposals will involve a loss to the current budget which may reach approximately eleven million pounds.

"This is a serious sacrifice for the taxpayers of this country, upon whom such heavy calls have already been made, but we hope that the step which we are taking in co-operation with the United States will be more than justified by the help it will give to reviving confidence and prosperity."

Britain's Dignity.

Following Mr. Snowden's statement, Mr. Baldwin, on behalf of the Conservatives, said he would content himself with saying that the Government had taken a course fully consistent with the dignity and reputation of our country.

Mr. Lloyd George said he was very glad the Government had given this complete, generous and unequivocal answer to the very noble gesture of the United States.

Replying to Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Chancellor said he would make a statement later as to how the budgetary position in this country would be affected by the Government's policy.

Mellon's Next Mission.

Mr. Andrew Mellon, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, is leaving for Paris to-morrow. Meanwhile, the French Ambassador in Washington, has delivered to Mr. Stimson the French Reply to President Hoover's offer.

SESSIONS MURDER
TRIAL.EYE-WITNESSES GIVE EVIDENCE.

WOMEN'S STORIES.

Eye-witnesses of the alleged murder by strangulation, which occurred at Yuenan, on April 1, the victim being Kan Shuk, gave evidence at the Criminal Sessions this morning before the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp) and a jury, when the trial of Wong Cheung, alias Wong Sik-cheung, was continued.

His Lordship recalled Li Shu-ting and asked her what period elapsed between the time when she looked over the partition into the room where the alleged murder was being committed, and the time when she saw the sack being removed.

Witness said it was about half an hour, and, in reply to another question said, there was a little daylight when the sack was removed by prisoner and his father, and was fully daylight.

Questioned as to what prisoner's father said to her when she spoke, witness said the words used were "Don't you mind about it. You need not make a noise. This is our affair." She explained she did not know if it meant one man's affair or more than one man's affair.

Young Sik-ngo said she was occupying a bed-space in the house on the night in question, together with her two younger sons. She was aroused by cries of "Save life!" so she got up and looked into the front room, where she saw Wong Kam, prisoner's father, and prisoner, holding Kan Shuk. Witness at first said she could see only by the feeble light of dawn, but later said the electric light was on.

Pressed to Floor.

She continued that she saw Kan Shuk pressed down to the floor by the two men. As Kan Shuk was being pressed down, the electric light went off. Witness added that one of her sons woke up, and as she had to attend to him she did not see anything more at that time.

The last witness, Li Shu-ting, came along and sat on witness's bed, and Yee Koo, prisoner's wife, also came and sat on the bed. Witness added she noticed that Wong Pak-cheung, a young son of Wong Kam, was looking down on the scene from an upper cubicle. She continued that the two men carried the body in a sack and moved in downstairs, Yee Koo opening the front door for them. They returned after an absence of 10 or 15 minutes, and afterwards she saw Yee Koo take a basin of water into the room where the alleged murder had been committed, which Wong Kam used for the purpose of washing the floor.

"A Little Fierce."

In cross-examination by Mr. Jenkin, witness said that Wong Kam was "a little fierce" but was not extreme. She did not know what work he did outside but, indoors, he made paper shoes for sacrificial purposes. She said she did not know that prisoner was Wong Kam's adopted son or that Wong Pak-cheung was Wong Kam's natural son.

Witness continued that prisoner worked regularly at Kowloon, Godown. She did not see Yee Koo when roused by cries of "Save life," and at about eight o'clock on the same morning she moved to No. 29, Shanghai Street. She added that she only knew Kan Shuk by sight and did not see him again at all except when she saw the body in the mortuary.

The case is proceeding.

ALL I KNOW ABOUT LIFE.

In post offices, and the refined voices of wireless announcers.

I do not know what an anti-cyclone is, and I cannot tell the time by the sun or read the stars.

It is my experience that Bishops are quicker to detect immorality than most people, and I have never met a broad-minded teetotaler or a shy actress.

I am under the impression that all head waiters are extremely rich, and I dislike crossing one-way streets and sitting near gas fires.

Among the unpleasant things of life I count Sunday in London, carrying luggage upstairs, American song lyrics and sarcasm, and it puzzles me why a tooth never aches in a dentist's waiting-room.

One of the ugliest words in the English language is "peruse."

Are All Wives Plain?

I cannot account for the fact that most married men have plain wives, nor do I understand why the majority of pretty girls are so ungainly when they swing a golf club.

I have given up all hope of mastering shorthand, and I cannot play bridge or listen very long to the conversation of scientists. The taste of whisky is still unpleasant to me, and I have never been able to finish the Essays of Elia or the Diary of Samuel Pepys.

I resent the fact that it is almost impossible to buy an English apple, and I would rank garage mechanics among the most incompetent of workmen. I consider that the smell of tanneries is simply appalling.

I do not find dustmen to be very obliging, and I miss the old-fashioned water-carts and the Empire promenade.

I can never pass a lighted window without looking in, and I always turn round at the sound of running feet. I have never smoked a hookah or played polo. I am fond of cats.

I am rather egotistical and hate work.

A Pleasure, INDEED!

SEATTLE enjoys her trade with the Orient... which, incidentally, is on the increase, and growing every year. This port particularly enjoys the trade of the Orient, because her geographic position with regard to the Orient is unique (a saving of several days) pleasing shippers, exporters, manufacturers and American customers.

That is just one of the reasons why the tonnage of the Port of Seattle has increased by millions of tons per year over a 10-year period... that and the mammoth port facilities available thru the seven great public terminals... modern in every detail, of course! You save in transit time and you save in transit money when your goods arrive, for rates in the Port of Seattle are low.

GOLF as the STARS Play it

Why is it disastrous to lift or move the head in the golf swing?

The head is the anchor of the golf swing. If it remains still, the clubhead will travel in the right groove and the hands will be kept in the proper place during the swing.

Have you noticed Hagen, Jones, Sarazen and other golf stars? They keep their heads still and looking down long after the ball has been hit.

All control of the club is lost when the head is lifted. This usually causes topping and other miserable results. A smooth backswing and a downswing are of great assistance to the golfer in keeping his head still. ART KRENZ.

SWATOW MENACE RELIEVED.

ANTI-BANDIT OPERATIONS SUCCESSFUL.

REDS NOW ON THE RUN

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Swatow, June 23. Contrary to expectations, there has been more success in dealing with the Communist bandits on the Kityang and Fungshan border since the withdrawal of the 62nd Division than previously.

This may in part be due to that Division having successfully handed over to their successors, the 2nd Independent Brigade under Brigadier Chang Sui-kwui, plans already on the point of maturing for the attack on the "eight villages." In part also it is due to an unexpectedly successful coup about the middle of last month by the Kityang Gendarmerie. On that occasion, the Gendarmerie, or train bands, of the district proceeded on secret information to a place called Chu-kang to arrest Communists. They met with resistance and lost two of their number, but they killed three, who turned out to be "key" men in the Communist movement. The place was a kind of headquarters, and documents giving lists of names and other information were found.

This has led to widespread arrests, and to the crushing of what looked like being a rising which would have thrown the Kityang district into confusion. In the course of these arrests, steps were taken to stop the traffic with the Communist area, and heavy fines were imposed on the wealthier of those concerned.

While taking these successful preventive measures, a further step was taken by sending a force from Chong-lok (Ng-fa) to rout the Communists from their lair in the eight villages. This has been done with such success as practically to clear the district. Some parties have escaped to neighbouring districts, but they are all on the run, and some captures have been made.

There are various rumours as to the fate of Ka Tai-tshun, the leader on whose head a price of $6,000 was put. Some say he has escaped, some that he is still in an inaccessible hill fastness whose outlet is watched by troops, some even that he has been captured.

For the time being, at any rate, the local menace is scotched. Vigorous action is being taken in the Phouleng district, and there have been no striking developments of bandit activity further south. The immunity of the north-east border from trouble recently is presumably explained by the activity of the Tau and Mo armies further north and west in Fukien.

CORRESPONDENCE.

British News Reels Wanted.

[To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—We have, at last, the very definite assurance that British films of quality will be included in the programmes of Hongkong cinemas. Might I draw attention to an important omission? Some Gaumont News Reels were freely shown, but of late we have had to be content with American news, almost invariably six months old, and the films seem chiefly to consist of extremely fat men wrestling, or excerpts from that peculiar game known as American football! Such items of home interest as so occasionally appear are completely bowdlerised to suit American tastes—one has only to compare the films shown here a couple of months or so ago depicting the 1101 Disaster with those shown at home to realise this.

Nowadays, British news reels are far superior to their American counterparts, not alone in showing British news but also from a world-wide aspect, and there is one theatre in Shaftesbury Avenue which shows nothing else and is always crowded.

Perhaps, if some of your correspondents would write their views, our film magnates would realise that not only would the importation of British news reels be encouraging trade at home, but it would also be "good business."

Yours, etc.,

CITIZEN.

Cult of the Nude.

Sir,—It is good to know in these days of depressed dollars and dull material times, that folk can still think in terms of physical and mental well-being.

Our churches might do worse than consider the granting of their support to the revolution for exposing our bodies more to the healthy daylight. "Nude sans" we still suffer from disease of darkness and to get clean upright thinking in bodies which are not physically perfect is the exception, not the rule.

Some people cannot see anything beyond the abuses which follow everything human, but A. I. folk will see the benefits.

The Colony has its fair share of apathy towards any departure from the well used rails of thought and action, as have most bodies politic, and a little more physical vitality, all of which comes from sunlight and the either could not be anything but good.

The medical fraternity might give considerable assistance by telling us of the dangers of long exposure to the direct rays of the sun, and the advantages to be gained by exposure to daylight under the blue vault of heaven. They might also tell us if it is not the case that we are suffering from a lack of sunshine this year.

Yours, etc.,

Sir,—Your correspondent, "New Age Supporter," is really advocating something which is both morally and legally wrong in suggesting "bathing in the nude." Perhaps it will be well to remind him that, according to our local law, it is an offence punishable with a fine not exceeding $250 for any person who "lewdly and indecently exposes his person by bathing or otherwise near any public place or dwelling house."

If your correspondent intends to establish what he calls a "Nude Culture Open Air Association" in Hongkong, I should first advise him to use his efforts with the members of the Legislative Council to have the law above-mentioned repealed, but I would like to assure your correspondent that, in my opinion, there will be very poor, if any, support for his proposals.

Your correspondent invites communications from all persons interested in what he calls his "culture." Why does he not give his name when he makes a public invitation?

Personally, I cannot see the necessity for approaching any public bench or bathing place in the Colony without the usual bathing costume.—Yours, etc.,

LEADERSHIP CHANGES YESTERDAY.

The two University teams compet-

in both instances recorded their first defeats of the season. In the "B"

The Captivating Charm... of a lovely smile

Beautiful, clever women fully realize that gleaming, healthy teeth are essential to a charming attractive smile—and they take as good care of their teeth as of their hands and hair and skin. It is highly significant that many of them use Squibb Dental Cream.

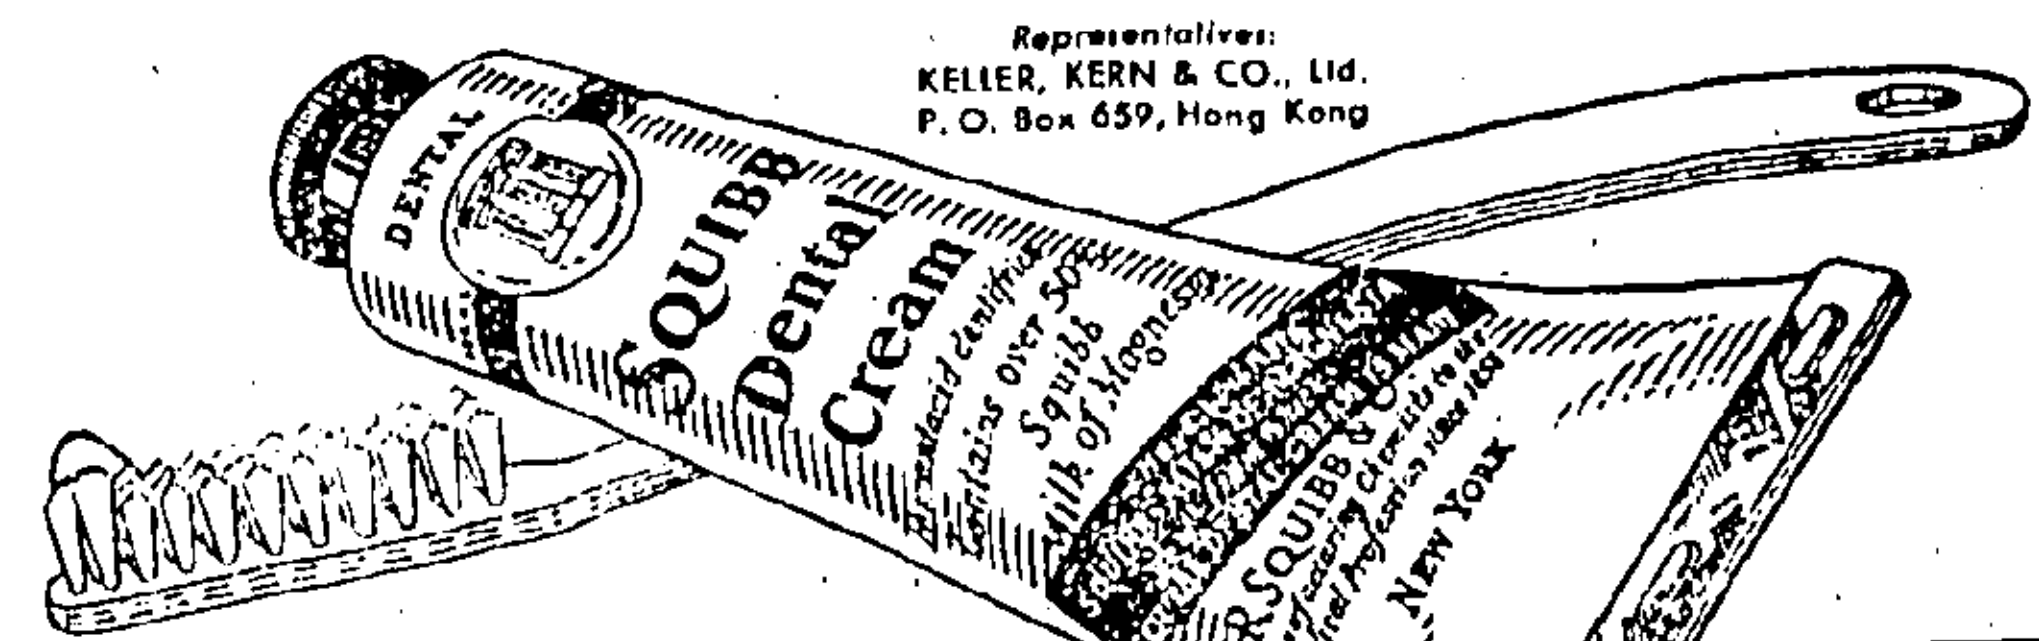

But Squibb's does far more than keep teeth lustrous and clean. It guards the Danger Line where gums meet teeth and where so many dental troubles start. Here dangerous acids form from fermenting foods which lodge in tiny crevices beyond the reach of the toothbrush. Squibb Dental Cream is made with over 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia, a soothing antacid which neutralizes the germ acids which cause decay.

Learn for yourself how beautifully and safely Squibb Dental Cream cleans. Experience the fresh, healthy feeling which this pleasant-tasting dentifrice leaves in your mouth. Watch your teeth grow more lustrous. Protect your health and guard the beauty of your smile.

WATER-POLO LEAGUE.

V.R.C. WIN THREE MATCHES LAST NIGHT.

It was a day out for the V. R. C. yesterday, for their three teams were engaged in last night's water-polo league games, and not content with winning all three matches, none of the three goalkeepers allowed the ball to pass him. As a matter of fact, the performances of the trio of custodians—Knight, da Rocha, and Soares—were the evening's outstanding features.

In tackling the Chinese Athletic, the senior team had its hardest proposition this season, as was indicated by the scores. On several occasions the Chinese went dangerously near to scoring but Knight was always in the way of their straight shots. Chan Sik-pui at the other goal was no less brilliant, and the two that did pass him were practically unplayable. The weakness of the Chinese was up forward.

Final scores: V. R. C., 2 goals; Chinese Athletic, nil. Teams: V. R. C.—Knight, Soares, Zimmerman, Remedios, C. and L. Rosa-Petelin, Laing.

Chinese—Chan Sik-pui, Kwok Fung-shun, Ng Kam-chuen, Chan Kam-chung, Choi Chak-lau, Tam Chi-keung, Lee Yee-long.

Kowloon "A" did not put out the strong side that they did on Monday and gave little opposition to the V.R.C. "A". They were quicker to the ball than Kowloon and a one-sided game ended with the scores: V. R. C., 11 goals; Kowloon, nil. Teams:

V. R. C.—da Rocha, Foralita, Maynard, Gittins, W. Lawrence, Silva Netto, Gosano.

Kowloon—Moss, Meadows, Speira, Franks, Sullivan, Aris, Fowler.

Meeting the 12th Heavy Battery in the other second division encounter the V. R. C. "B" team had its hardest tussle for the season. The Artillerymen went down after a hard battle.

BAFFLING NEW YORK CRIME.

SPECIALIST MURDERED IN BED-ROOM.

New York, June 2. The discovery this morning of the murdered body of Dr. George E. Deely, in the bed-room of his home in the Columbia Heights section of Brooklyn, presented the police with a baffling mystery, on which, because of the prominence of the victim, they are spending unusual effort.

Dr. Deely, who is one of the best-known eye, ear, and throat specialists in the City, was killed during the night without his assailant disturbing the caretakers, Arthur Lindors and his wife, who were sleeping on the fourth story directly above the physician's bed-room.

The police state that a heavy rug on the bed-room floor deadened the sounds of the attack. This is believed to have come from somebody with whom the doctor was intimate, since he had discarded his false teeth and eyeglasses and was clad only in his pyjamas and silk dressing gown when murdered.

Taken Unawares.

From the position of the body, which was near an overturned chair, the police assume the doctor was taken unawares by the person with whom he had been conversing. He had a knife wound on the lower part of the abdomen, but death had been caused by the crushing of the skull with a heavy mahogany ornamental ball, which the assailant had lifted from the bed post, using its pin as the handle of a club. The cord of his dressing gown was tied fast around the doctor's throat.

Dr. Deely who had built up a large and profitable practice, was a bachelor, living alone at Brownstone House, which is opposite the Packer Institute, an exclusive school for girls.

The caretakers, who were only engaged last week, had emphatic orders to rouse Dr. Deely at 8.15 in the morning to permit him to keep his office appointments. When they tried to awaken him in the morning they received no response. When they discovered that the bed-room door was locked they became alarmed and called the police, who broke open the door.

The street door as well as that of the bed-room was locked.

In the prominence of the victim the case bears some resemblance to the murder of the whist expert, Joseph Elwell, which was never solved.

Battery stands out as the best service team this season and they peppered the goal during the final stages, but Soares was impassable and was equal to every occasion. V. R. C. won by the only goal scored during the game.

Teams: V. R. C.—Soares, MacGrann, da Rocha, King, E. Lawrence, Lopes, Leonard.

Battery—Trice, Breeds, Cavanagh, Lewis, Gray, Haywood, Oliver.

SHANGHAI POLICE CONFLICT.

SERIOUS CLASH ON AVENUE HAIG.

(Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai, June 24.

A serious affair occurred this afternoon near the Chinese boundary, resulting in a conflict between Settlement and Chinese police, in the course of which one of the Chinese officers was accidentally wounded. A bad situation at once developed, and more police have been rushed to the scene.

The affair started simply in a dispute between an American resident and his tailor. It appears that the American, who resides at 858 Avenue Haig, tendered a cheque to his tailor, who returned and stated that he was unable to collect payment. The American insisted that he had adequate funds at his bank, and argument then arose.

The Chinese called some Chinese policemen from the Chinese side of the boundary, though the street is inside the Settlement. Meanwhile the American telephoned for the Settlement police and a foreign sergeant arrived.

Immediately, the Chinese police proceeded to load their rifles and prepare for action. The foreign policeman also drew his revolver. A shot rang out and it was seen that the foreign sergeant, probably quite accidentally, had shot one of the Chinese policemen in the arm.

A huge crowd had gathered and became very excited. The American's residence was besieged by Chinese. Police from the Settlement, under the control of the Commissioner himself, have gone to the scene.

UNWASHED MOSCOW.

PRIVATIONS FOR LACK OF SOAP.

One of the sharpest of Moscow's present-day privations is the lack of soap. During one recent month no soap was sold on some of the ration booklets; and during the last month the ration, at least for non-manual workers, was fixed at half a cake per person. This is insufficient for personal cleanliness, sufficient for the difficulties of washing clothing. Soap is sold on the private market at eight rubles (nominally sixteen shillings) a cake; but apart from the very high price much of this soap is made out of dubious substances and some cases of eczema and other skin diseases are reported by people who have experimented with it.

The shortage of soap is universal in Russia. In a provincial town on the Lower Volga the fifth of the hotel rooms was accounted by the fact that the sheets, as the manager stated, had not been washed with soap for months, having been merely dipped in bluing as a substitute. Peasants in a northern region more recently were cooking ashes in order to extract some sort of preparation which served as a soap substitute. The main factors in the soap shortage seem to be the lack of animal fats (a result of the wholesale destruction of cattle during the winter of 1929-30), and the sale of a certain amount of Soviet soap on foreign markets.

Tuesday, bound for the fishing grounds off the Nine Pins. At about 10.30 p.m. when the junk was in the vicinity of Nine Pins, a squall blew up and the junk capsized. It drifted ashore and later broke up on one of the islands nearby.

The crew were able to get off in small boats before the junk capsized.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE
INCIDENT.ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST DUTCHMAN.

There was a sequel, before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon, to the recent incident at the Seamen's Institute when Mr. H. Watt, the manager, had the horrifying experience of waking from a sleep and finding a man standing over him with a chopper poised in his hand.

The alleged assailant, Jan Wagter, a Dutch seaman, was brought before his Worship on a charge of assault. The defendant indicated that he knew nothing whatever of the affair.

Detective Sub-Inspector Rozesky conducted the case for the Police and informed his Worship that the defendant went to a cooked food stall on the afternoon of Friday last and took a chopper from the hawk. Fearing trouble, the stall-holder blew a police whistle and the defendant ran along Tai Yuen Street towards the Seamen's Institute.

He ran inside and went straight to the room of the manager, Mr. Watt. A duty "boy" saw the defendant enter the Institute and followed him upstairs. On entering the room of Mr. Watt, who was asleep on the balcony, the defendant went over to where the manager was.

A Struggle.

The "boy" shouted to his employer who, on being aroused, found the defendant standing over him with a chopper in his hand. Seizing a chair, Mr. Watt defended himself, successfully warding off a blow which the defendant aimed. The chopper struck the chair, knocking two of the legs off. Mr. Watt struck the defendant and grappled with him. The "boy" then grabbed the chopper from the accused and, with the help of other inmates of the Institute the defendant was overpowered.

After hearing the evidence his Worship said that the defendant seemed to have been very much under the influence of drink. At the same time his condition did not excuse a crime which was committed, although it might be a mitigating circumstance. His Worship said that he understood the health of the defendant was not good and that he had had an operation recently.

Detective Sub-Inspector Rozesky said that he understood the defendant had been in hospital for six months.

The defendant remarked that he had had two operations. Detective Sergeant Mottram, officer in charge of the Passports Office, said that there was nothing known against the defendant. He had been in and out of the House of Detention.

His Worship registered a conviction but adjourned the case until to-morrow for the defendant's medical record to be produced.

THE MORATORIUM.

FRENCH RESERVATION NOT LIKED BY U.S.

Berlin, June 24.
A plea for a candid exchange of views with France on Franco-German problems was made by Chancellor Brüning in a wireless broadcast last night.

After stating that the German Government was prepared to co-operate to their utmost in the attainment of President Hoover's aim, Herr Brüning declared that the problems confronting France and Germany were so great and so urgent for both countries, that a candid exchange of views could hardly fail to find some ground for a satisfactory solution.—Reuter.

"Not Favourable."

New York, June 24.
The United States Government has informed France that her conditions to an acceptance of Mr. Hoover's proposal will not be regarded favourably at Washington, according to the Paris correspondent of the Associated Press.—Reuter's American Service.

Premier to Make Statement.

Paris, June 24.
The Ministerial Council has decided that the reply to Mr. Hoover's proposal will not be published until the Premier, M. Laval, makes a statement in the Chamber on June 29.—Reuter.

More British Comment.

London, June 24.
The Times, in a leading article setting forth the reasons for the French hesitations, says they desire sympathetic consideration, and it is sincerely to be hoped that neither diplomatic nor public discussion may be allowed to imperil what the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, called yesterday the "first real step towards world recovery."

The Daily Telegraph, which thinks it inconceivable that the opportunity extended by Washington should be allowed to pass, asks, "If Germany, denied for years the relief which Mr. Hoover proposes, should exercise her right under the Young Plan to declare a moratorium of conditional reparations payments, what would be France's position? If France then fulfilled her obligations under the plan, and had at the same time to continue those payments to Washington and London, which it is now proposed to postpone, how much would be left of the unconditional annuity from Germany? Very little, say the experts. Little indeed to justify endangering the success of Mr. Hoover's promise of rescue."

The Manchester Guardian expresses a belief that if Mr. Hoover had ignored the information which convinced him Germany was on the verge of a collapse, Germany would have declared a moratorium, perhaps within a week, and France would have been in a worse position than if she accepted the Hoover proposal. By accepting, France could, like other countries, look forward to a less hazardous future.

The general tone of the London stock markets opened easier this morning, in consequence of doubts as regards the French re-

ONCE A PALATIAL
YACHT.ROMANTIC HISTORY OF BATTERED CRAFT.

Shanghai, June 20.
Battered and badly bent in places from a nine-day battle with the Pacific, a dirty, queer-looking craft, but unlike a common trawler yet bearing signs of having been built for something better than trawling, crawled into the Whangpoo yesterday, practically with its last gasp. It reported that it had but one barrel of oil left. Had that gone, it would have been necessary to resort to the radio which, strange to say, this unusual craft carries.

Built by Earl.
For 28 days the Chasina had been fighting the Pacific in an effort to reach Shanghai, and its crew of eleven bronzed, bowlikered and very determined-looking, expressed themselves as glad and relieved to enter the shelter of any port, even the dreariness of the lower Whangpoo. Few who inspected the Chasina would ever imagine this craft to have once been the proud possession of an English nobleman or of a capricious, luxury-loving actress. Yet, if one turns the clock back 51 years to a scene one bright June morning at Fairfield Shipbuilding Works, Glasgow, one might see the Earl of Angelsen, a great heat in Queen Victoria's time, proudly entertaining the cream of English and Scottish society at the launching ceremony of his new pleasure yacht, the Selma.

For the Earl it was a special gala occasion, inasmuch as gossip of the day had it that he was very much in love with a beautiful London society woman and had built this yacht for the express purpose of making a tour of the world with a few selected guests, one of whom was to be the lady in question.

Guest Left Aboard.
Legend has it that when everything was ready for the vessel to sail, the Earl suddenly remembered something very important and returned to shore, leaving all his guests, the majority of whom are said to have been either well-known society women or other beautiful ladies admired by the Earl.

Those connected with the Chasina, well acquainted with the vessel's history, allege that during the Earl's absence the captain of the yacht had to sea, leaving the Earl behind. For two years he is alleged to have kept the whereabouts of the Selma hidden and although the Earl employed every means at his disposal to trace his missing yacht, it was not until the elapse of between two and three years that he finally located it. But the captain he could not find. At this point the facts become clouded with uncertainty but it is said that the Earl eventually abandoned his efforts to recover his yacht and it was purchased by the celebrated actress of that time, Lily Langtry, who transferred the Selma to the Mediterranean for use as her summer home and the yacht became well-known at the various summer resorts along the Mediterranean coast.

Upon the death of the actress, a company operating several steamships, purchased the Selma and for nearly 20 years the vessel was used as a ferry between Powell Island and Vancouver. Now with its band of adventurers aboard it is heading for anywhere there is a cargo to be had.

BREATHING BY MACHINERY.

A REMARKABLE INVENTION.

The collaboration of two brothers, an engineer and a doctor, has produced an ingenious new machine which performs artificial respiration for an indefinite period.

The patient lies in comfort inside an iron tank, from which his head projects through an airtight rubber collar. By means of electric blowers the air pressure inside the tank is rhythmically varied, at the rate of normal breathing. Every time it falls the patient's chest and lungs expand and he takes in a breath—whether he wishes to or not.

Here we have a mechanism which closely imitates normal respiration, and under an attendant's control the rate and depth of breathing can be adjusted to individual requirements. There is no difficulty in eating, drinking, or sleeping while in the apparatus, and doctor or nurse can examine the patient or attend to his wants through portholes in the side of the tank.

Should anything more elaborate be needed the operator simply induces a few extra deep breaths—by way of increasing the reserve—and the patient can be slipped out of his box for a few minutes without taking harm.

In this way people have been kept in the respirator for months at a time, and this has proved immensely valuable for children with infantile paralysis whose respiratory muscles have been put out of action. If the lungs can be kept working the power to breathe is sometimes gradually recovered, and at worst a great deal of distress is saved.

The apparatus has also been used with success in cases of asphyxiation due to gas-poisoning, electric shock, and partial drowning. As is well known, in these conditions life may be restored after many hours of artificial respiration, and the Drinker respirator is able to carry on this treatment far more regularly and effectively than the relays of human helpers usually employed.

At the same time, it is certainly not intended to supersede the ordinary methods, such as Schaefer's, which will always be appropriate at the scene of the accident, and at least until the patient reaches hospital. The new machinery is, unfortunately, too cumbersome and costly for use outside large institutions.

Nevertheless, it is to be hoped that many hospitals will be able to acquire the two models described by Prof. Philip Drinker, of Harvard, in the "Lancet."

The "infant size" is likely to be particularly useful, for it is designed to counter the type of asphyxia which is all too common in new-born babies. If the child does not breathe within a minute or two of birth, it is placed in the respirator and normal breathing (it is found) may begin as long as an hour later.

It may be noted that manufacture of the machines in England has been entrusted to a firm of English submarine engineers, and "no profits will accrue to any person in any way concerned with the development or sale of the apparatus in America."

Apprehended by revenue officers in Connaught Road West yesterday, two young girls were found to have 112 taels of opium concealed about their bodies. They appeared before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when the bigger of the two, who gave her age as 16, was fined

LONDON TO WARSAW AND BACK IN A DAY.

Captain Neville
Stack's Feat.

4-MINUTE STOP.

London, June 24. Captain Neville Stack, the well-known speed pilot, accompanied by Mr. Chaplin, created a new record to-day, by flying over two thousand miles from London to Warsaw and back in a day!

Captain Stack, who recently flew to Constantinople in a straight flight, used an all-British mail-plane for the purpose of the Warsaw venture.

He left London at 4.20 a.m. this morning, reached Warsaw within eight hours, landing at 12.30 p.m., turned his plane round and took off on the return flight four minutes later, reaching London at 9.54 p.m.

The complete trip of 2,000 miles occupied him slightly under seventeen and a half hours, or slightly under an average of 120 miles an hour.

Captain Stack has been carrying out a series of such flights recently to demonstrate the possibility of speeding up British air-mail services.—Reuter.

$6,000, or imprisonment for a year. The smaller girl, who had 60 taels strapped to her body and legs, gave her age as 18, but the Magistrate expressed doubt and accordingly remanded her until to-morrow to enable enquiries to be made.

AMERICA'S RYDER CUP TEAM.

REMARKABLE EFFORT
BY AN UNKNOWN.

GIVEN HIS PLACE.

Columbus, Ohio, June 24. In the broiling heat of to-day, the British Ryder Cup team, practising for the great event at the Seloto Course, were practically unrecognisable.

Wearing silk chokers (which have replaced collars and ties) broad-brimmed sun hats and baggy flannel trousers, it seems that this is to be the new uniform of the team during their stay in America.

Their two-round tryout to-day was as much a test of endurance of the heat as it was of golf.

Meanwhile, as they averaged around fours, their form must be regarded as very satisfactory.

The American team has now been completed. It will consist of Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Joe Farrell, Gene Sarazen, W. Horton Smith, Al Espinosa, Whiffy Cox, Billy Burke, Craig Wood and Densmore Shute.

The four last-named were selected as the result of a qualifying test in which Billy Burke, with 289 strokes for 72 holes, beat the record of 293 which was sufficient to enable Bobby Jones to win the 1926 American Open Championship.

Cox took 294 and Wood 299. Shute qualified after teeing with Walsh Cuiet at 302. They played off over eighteen holes and Shute returned a par score of 72.—Reuter's American Service.

"My dear Miss Davies:
In 'The Bachelor Father',
you give the finest performance

writes

DAVID BELASCO

dean of the American stage

My dear Miss Davies:

Having produced and directed
'The Bachelor Father' for the stage, I was,
of course, greatly interested in the screen
production of this magnificent comedy.
And I want to tell you how delighted I was with the picture—and particularly with your own incomparably charming performance.

In 'The Bachelor Father' you give the finest performance of a very fine career. Let me congratulate and thank you.
Faithfully,
David Belasco
